PRESENTATION OF THE HUMAN RIGHTS AND DEMOCRACY CONSORTIUM

Human Rights and Democracy Consortium includes more than 80 highly qualified consultants, specialised in human rights and democracy. The Consortium is led by Indevelop in cooperation with Global Reporting, Human Rights Team and Tana Copenhagen.

The consortium members have extensive experience of development context assignments, specifically capacity development, monitoring and evaluations and institutional development. The team includes world-leading experts in several fields.

Key competences include, but are not limited to:

- Public financial management reform, focusing on transparent systems on national and local levels.
- Policy advice from implementing public administration reform programs.
- Local democracy, political institutions and political participation.
- Rule of Law area (access to justice, legal awareness and assistance, mechanisms for conflict resolution and how to enforce decisions).
- Human Rights Based Approach in development cooperation and programming of governments, donors and civil society (accountability, transparency, non-discrimination, and participation).

- Communication with a focus on dialogue, advocacy, freedom of expression and cultural diversity.
- Non discrimination and the rights of children/youth, women, LGBT persons, and persons with disabilities.

The consortium is endowed with established global, regional and national networks that provide first hand access to experts, contacts and contextual knowledge in all regions and countries where Sida works.

With our combination of specialists we can put together teams that cover a wide variety of services related to democracy and human rights. Our way of working is flexible and fully adaptable to the needs of Sida and Swedish Embassies.
